Coverdell Education Savings Account Distribution Guide

The term “qualified education expenses,” as defined in Section 530(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code (26 USC 530), means:

(a) Qualified elementary and secondary education expenses including the following:

- Tuition, fees, academic tutoring, special needs services in the cases of a special needs beneficiary¹, books, supplies, and other equipment which are incurred in connection with the enrollment or attendance of the designated beneficiary at an eligible educational institution;²
- Room and board, uniforms, transportation, and supplementary items and services (including extended day programs) which are required in connection with such enrollment or attendance; and
- Expenses for the purchase of any computer technology or equipment or Internet access and related services, if such technology, equipment, or services are to be used by the beneficiary and the beneficiary’s family during any of the years the beneficiary is in school. (Computer software designed for sports, games, or hobbies is not considered an expense unless the software is predominately educational in nature).

(b) Qualified higher education expenses including the following:

- Tuition, fees, books, supplies, and equipment required for the enrollment or attendance of a designated beneficiary at an eligible educational institution,² as well as special needs services in the case of a special needs beneficiary which are incurred in connection with such enrollment or attendance; and
- If the beneficiary is at least a half-time student, room and board while attending such institution; however, the expense shall not exceed the allowance for room and board included in the cost of attendance as determined by the eligible educational institution for such period, or, if greater, the actual invoice amount the student residing in housing owned or operated by the eligible educational institution is charged by such institution for room and board costs for such period.

(c) A distribution from a Coverdell ESA may be used to contribute to a qualified tuition plan.

Beginning in 2002, a HOPE or Lifetime Learning tax credit may be claimed in the same taxable year in which the beneficiary takes a tax-free distribution from a Coverdell ESA, provided the distribution from the Coverdell ESA is not used for the same expenses for which the credit is claimed. In addition, one can now make contributions to a Coverdell ESA and a qualified tuition program in the same year for the same beneficiary.

DISTRIBUTIONS FROM A COVERDELL ESA ARE TAX-FREE PROVIDED THE FOLLOWING REQUIREMENT IS MET:

- Withdrawals from a Coverdell ESA do not exceed the Beneficiary’s qualified education expenses for the tax year.

DISTRIBUTIONS THAT ARE NOT USED TOWARDS THE BENEFICIARY’S QUALIFIED EDUCATION EXPENSES, OR EXCEED THE BENEFICIARY’S QUALIFIED EDUCATIONAL EXPENSES, WILL RESULT IN THE FOLLOWING TAX CONSEQUENCES:

- The Beneficiary will be subject to both income tax and an additional 10% federal tax penalty on the portion of the distribution that represents earnings accumulated in the account. However, the 10% federal tax penalty will not apply if the designated beneficiary is permanently disabled, dies, or the distribution is made because the beneficiary received a qualified scholarship, an educational assistance allowance, or other payment excludable from gross income.
- Each distribution is treated as representing a pro-rata share of the principal (i.e., contributions) and accumulated earnings in the account.

EXAMPLE: A Coverdell ESA has a total balance of $2,000, of which $1,500 represents past contributions and $500 represents earnings. If $1,000 (½ of the balance) were withdrawn, $250 of the distribution would represent accumulated earnings. Unless the distribution is used towards a qualifying education expense, the $250 portion will be subject to taxes and (assuming the beneficiary has not died or become permanently disabled) a 10% federal tax penalty.

- A withdrawal from a Coverdell ESA may be rolled over tax-free to another Coverdell ESA for the benefit of the same beneficiary or certain eligible members of the beneficiary’s family within 60 days. Eligible members of the beneficiary’s family include his/her children and their descendants, stepchildren and their descendants, siblings and their children, parents and grandparents, stepparents, spouses of the foregoing and first cousins of the beneficiary. The $2,000 annual contribution limit to the Coverdell ESA does not apply to these rollover contributions.
- The amount remaining in a Coverdell ESA upon the beneficiary’s 30th birthday must be distributed within 30 days. This does not apply to a special needs beneficiary.

EXCESS CONTRIBUTION TO A COVERDELL ESA The total Coverdell ESA contributions from ALL sources for the designated beneficiary during the tax year may not exceed $2,000. Aggregate contributions for the benefit of the beneficiary in excess of $2,000 are treated as excess contributions. If the excess contributions and any earnings attributable to them are not withdrawn before the first day of the sixth month following the taxable year (June 1st), the excess contributions are subject to a 6% excise tax for each year the excess remains in the Coverdell ESA. The excess contribution withdrawn is not taxable, but the earnings must be included as income for the tax year the excess was made and may be subject to a 10% premature penalty tax. The excise tax is imposed on the beneficiary and not the contributor. [IRC §530(d)(4)(C); IRC § 4973(e); IRS Notice 97-60]

NOTE: In the event the Responsible Individual dies or becomes incapacitated, the Beneficiary shall become the Responsible Individual if he or she has reached the age of majority and is not incapacitated. If the Beneficiary does not satisfy these requirements and the Responsible Individual was a parent, the other parent shall become the Responsible Individual. If there are no remaining parents, the Beneficiary’s legal guardian will become the Responsible Individual.

1. A “special needs beneficiary” is one who, because of a physical, mental or emotional condition (including a learning disability) requires additional time to complete his or her education, as determined by Department of Treasury regulations.

2. An “eligible educational institution” is any school which provides elementary education or secondary education (kindergarten through grade 12), as determined under state law, including a public, private or religious school; and generally any college, university, or post-secondary vocational institution offering credit towards an associate, bachelor’s, graduate or professional degree, or other recognized post-secondary credential, that is eligible to participate in a Department of Education student aid program.
